

In Your Face!

Let's face it, ladies—no one ever said it was easy being gorgeous. When you consider all the things we've got working against us—dry or blotchy skin, pores the size of saucers, the threat of damage from the sun and other environmental elements, and, the Scarlet A (that's aging, honey)—it's a wonder that any of us are ever able to pull ourselves together enough to leave the house. So what's a gal to do when it seems like everything's conspiring against her? Why, fight back, of course!

Sure, it may seem like the odds aren't exactly on our side here, but the good news is that you can stock yourself with a veritable arsenal of weapons to be deployed against any and all factors that try to keep your natural beauty from shining through. So whether you're battling blotchiness, squaring off against sun damage, or just gearing up to give those wrinkles a swift kick in the rear, arm yourself properly—and get ready to fight the good fight.
